

Summer 2022 Career Placement

Product Space @ Berkeley is the UC Berkeley chapter of Product Space, a nation-wide family of students who are passionate about product management. We strive to cultivate a tight-knit community of product leaders who are well-prepared to guide impactful products in industry.

Our Mission

At Product Space, our mission is to help undergraduate students nurture the skills demanded in this field so they can thrive as product leaders and help others who are interested in product management. To accomplish this, we continue to build a strong, engaged community of future product managers who are excited to embark on their product journey and desire to give back as much as they take.

Our Methodology

For their first semester, Product Space's new members learn about the fundamentals of product management through the fellowship program. Covered topics include product design, market research, GTM strategy and PM interviews. Graduated fellows and more experienced new members apply their product skills on challenging problems through projects sourced from client companies.
